BEFORE THE FAIR.

Opinion on the Hawaiian Situation

Before the News of Revolution Cleveland (O.) Leader: When the Nicaragua Canal is built Pearl Har-bor will be near the route from the canal to Japan and still more directly in the path of vessels to China and India. Its value, then, from a strategic standpoint, would, be almost incalculable, and since the increase in our fleet demands better facilities in coaling stations, the authorities ought not to hesitate to push forward the work at Pearl Harbar as available as available. It is far to reason to the size of the sugar doesn't want any mortgaged sugar plantations with volcano adoruments.

Compared with pneumonia the cholera is not a very great source of danger. It is safe to say that more than a hundred people die of the bor as rapidly as possible. It is far too valuable a concession to be allowed to pass into other hands.

Boston Traveler:-And now they Boston Traveler:—And now they are talking of a submarine cable to Hawaii. By carrying out this project, we should get a good hold on these islands, and might in time be able to rope them in.

Chicago News Record:—It is announced with evidences of truthfulness that Mr. Cleveland will, as president have what might be called an ident, have what might be called an "annexation policy." First will come the proposition to annex Canada; after that a plan to annex the Hawaiian Islands, and perhaps Cuba.

* * Annexation, the extension of American dominion, sounds well and awakens enthusiasm. But after all it is a matter requiring thoughtful consideration. * * The Hawaiian Islands may grow ripe for annexa-tion soon. But Cuba is a dependency of Spain, and what shall console that country for the loss of the magnificent island? W. H. Stoy in Portland Oregonian: Having spent the months of May and June last in Honolulu and the island of Hawaii, having been pre-sent at the opening of the present legislature in Honolulu and met and conversed with many of its members, and also with a great number of the leading subjects and citizens of the kingdom, I may speak, it seems to ne, with some assurance of the condition of things there, and of the future of that most interesting and and beautiful cluster of Pacific isl-

The natives, as a matter of fact, no doubt, are jealous of their rights, and of the autonomy of their government and country, and they are the more so, in view of the fact, which is ever before them, that their race is rapidly disappearing from the islands. Their present number in all of the islands is thought not to exceed very much 30,000; the whole population, including natives, whites, Portuguese, Chinese, et al., being about 85,000. On an average, there are five a month-mostly nativessent to the leper colony on Molokai this and other causes, arising out of civilized conditions, which are too much for them, is rapidly sweeping out of existence a once numerous and heroic race. They are now in a high degree an interesting, lovable, pitiable and dependent people. They are, to a large extent, educated, in-telligent and law-abiding, and are better fitted to be citizens of the United States than the people of Mexico. They are proud of their native land and the government of their royal chiefs. But they are a friendly, loving-hearted people, and they realize their declining condition, and they look with admiration.

That dirty man will die like the rest. Give me my Shirts or in an hour I'll sue, It will cost me nothing but be dear for you, Yor I have a pull and in jail you'll go, And when you are there you'll have no show.

He tried his dirty game but it did not work, He got hit in the neck and a good hard jerk, He feels as sore as a leper case, He is so ashamed to look in your face.

MORAL—Do others or they will do you. tion, and they look with admiration to "the Great Rei as their helper and protector. What, then, is to be the ultimate outcome for the Hawaiian islands? It can only be—and that will be very soon—that they will be absorbed by a race and a power stronger and more lasting than they. Shall that power be England, or France, or Germany, give us a call. Satisfaction guaranor the United States? Every reason, every consideration, every equity of Hawaiian people and for the future interests of this country answers: "They must be the possession of the United States." Portland Oregonian: It does not appear that the English government particularly desires to assume con-trol of Hawaii, though British residents desire eagerly that it should do so. It is customary among colonizing nations to recognize that commercial occupation gives a certain political title; that the nation whose traders occupy a land incapable of maintaining a government in greatest number, and whose commerce with it is most considerable, has prior claim to enter upon its politi-cal administration. This principle entitles the United States to annex Hawaii, when the native rule comes the case, both for the good of the

to an end, and it is certain that Great Britain would interpose no obstacle; would rather encourage us to do what she would do herself under similar circumstances. But it must not be supposed that either Great Britain or Germany. which has large commercial interests in the islands also, would neglect to take possession of Hawaii, when the native government goes to pieces, if we were to neglect to exercise our prior right to do so, recognized by the code of colonizing nations

We cannot play the dog in the manger. We may take Hawaii or let it alone; we may insist that no other nation shall overthrow a decent, safe and orderly native government, which protects trade and makes life and property safe; but we cannot ask other nations to stand by and see it fall into anarchy, to the destruction of trade and the danger of their subjects' lives. A time will certainly come when we shall have to decide whether to take Hawaii ourselves or see it the property of some European power.

When that time comes, we can hardly hesitate. Whatever may be thought of the desirability of the islands as an acquisition, there can be only one view of the undesirability of seeing a British or German colony planted there. So long as the islands remain independent, we want nothing more than the naval station now secured us by treaty. But we don't want a naval station commanded by the guns of an European colony, either in Hawaii or Samoa. The latter has been neutralized. When Hawaii loses independence it must become neutral or American.

Islands is $36,500,000, of which merchants of the United States own all but $10,000,000. We'll have to annex Queen Liliuokalani's dominion.

As long as we own it, we might as well have it. St. Paul Globe: - This talk of Hawaiian annexation is all rubbish. canal to Japan and still more direct- Uncle Sam doesn't want any mort-than a hundred people die of the former where one dies of the latter the world over. To have the cholera, one must eat or drink something containing a cholera seed. The disease must be regularly planted in you. Eat hot food, boil your drinking water, disinfect the rooms you live in and the cholera can't hurt you. More than this, if your stomach is in a healthy condition, not one cholera germ in a million when taken into it will sprout and grow. Everybody seems to be shouting about the cholera, when the danger of death from a severe cold is a hunlred-fold greater. To take pneumonia you have only to get into a violent state of perspiration, and then sit for ten minutes in a draught. A man runs, or digs, gets hot, and sits down to rest. Up he jumps and raises a window. And then a cool breeze just kills him. Very likely he is fool enough to sit with his back to a window partially raised.

It makes one tired to think how history repeats itself in this matter.

history repeats itself in this matter of fool killing. There was Judge of New York, a man of large intelligence. One night last December he played billiards at his club until he was in a profuse state of perspira-tion, walked three blocks to his home in the teeth of the wind, and died in four days. There are thou-sands of just such cases every year. Now then, stop fretting over the cholera for a little while, and try to cultivate a wholesome dread of a cold. It's dollars to doughnuts that you die of a cold rather than of cholera. Don't! You have no reason to. Any cold can be cured, even one whose tendency is pneumonia, if taken in time. Begin to fight it early. Don't give it more than six or twelve hours' headway. Put on an overcoat. Kindle up a big fire.

for Shirts. Joseph V. Dory, of Warsaw, Ill., was troubled with rheumatism and tried a number of different remedies, but says none of them seemed to do him any good, but finally he got hold of one that speedily cured him. He was much pleased with it, and felt sure that others similarly afflicted would like to know what the remedy was that cured him. He states for the benefit of the public that it is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Agents for the Hawai-

"Women be they of what earthly rank they may, however gifted with intellect or genius, or endowed with awful beauty, have always some little handiwork ready to fill the tiny gap of every vacant moment. A needle is familiar to the fingers of them all. A queen, no doubt, plies it on occasion; the woman poet can use it as adroitly as her pen; the woman's eye, that has discovered a new star, turns from its glory to send the polished little instrument gleaming along the hem of her kerchief, or to darn a casual fray in her dress. And they have greatly the advantage of us in this respect. The slender thread of silk or cotton keeps them united with the small, familiar, gentle interests of life, the continually operating influences of which do so much for the health of the character, and carry off what would otherwise be a dangerous accumulation of morbid sensibility. A vast deal of human sympathy runs along this electric line, stretching from the throne to the wicker chair of the humblest seamstress, and keeping high and low in a species of communion with their kindred beings."
